FOR KENTUCKY:—Fair and slightly warmer Thursday.

THE FARMERS' DEMAND.

Many weeks ago the Kentuckian in all kindness called the attention of Mr. Ewing to the growing discontent in the ranks of his association in regard to his business methods and urged him to save the association by changing his methods, profiting by the experience of other better managed organizations in adjoining counties. In spite of the good intentions in the advise tendered, the Kentuckian was at once beset by Mr. Ewing's dogs of war, from Tighe on down to Fido, from the Only Organ at Guthrie down to the dismal echo in this city. Mr. Ewing, for reasons best known to himself, determined to stick to the old plan of paying the farmer $3 to $4 for $10 to $11 tobacco, rather than allow it to be sold without the royalty of $1 or more a hundred. He now finds himself like Nero, fiddling while Rome burns from a fire he started himself. Weak and vacillating he has hesitated and hesitating has lost control. The association in Christian county at least is on the verge of dissolution. It can be saved by prompt and vigorous action. The first step is to change leaders, putting at the head as general manager some capable business man who knows how to turn a crop of tobacco into money, and who will render an account for all money that passes through his hands. With a new leader at the helm, the next step should be to open an auction room at every natural market in the Black Patch and give every other county as good a chance as Robertson county, Tennessee, enjoys. If Mr. Ewing is unwilling to be retired, then upon his head will rest the responsibility of wrecking the association that gave promise of bringing such great benefits to the trust-ridden farmers.

When the farmers of Christian county meet in mass meeting Saturday, let them come with a well defined purpose to maintain their organization and correct the abuses of mismanagement, or failing in this transfer their membership to some other better managed organization, and there are several such in Western Kentucky.

Many of the newspapers of Western Kentucky that have been classed as night rider organs are publishing in full a recent lengthy speech by Judge O'Rear, of the court of appeals, who refers to Bacon's Rebellion in the time of Charles I as the first night rider movement, caused by the oppression of a "Royal monopolist." The night riders all feel that they have a friend in Judge O'Rear.

Wayne county, Indiana, of which Richmond is the county seat, went wet by 1,000 majority.

The court of appeals has sustained the riot clause in the night rider insurance case, appealed from Princeton.

Missouri's youthful governor has given out a statement that he saws his own firewood. The governor should not only saw wood but "say upthing."

Twenty-five hundred men have been examined in securing 11 jurors in the Cooper trial in Nashville. Another venire of 500 has been drawn to secure the one lacking.

FARMER DISCUSSES.

The Threats of Prosecutions for Violation of Crecilious Bill.

EDITOR KENTUCKIAN:

I saw a warning in the Kentuckian to the members of the association, saying they will be prosecuted for selling their tobacco outside. Mr. Chairman, do you think these men are legally members of the association? Do you think they were made members by the use of shotguns and torches? The latter you will answer I know. Where have the pledges of the association gone to? They said they would grade our tobacco and sell it at graded prices. Did they do it? No, Sir, they graded it and then graded it down to suit the trust. Couldn't we have done the same? Certainly, we could have sold it as well as the association and without all those expenses we have had to pay to the officers and managers.

I would think if the association can sue, it might be sued. Surely it is an organization subject to the laws of our state. Let me state right here, you were in a committee meeting when the subject of forcing men in was discussed and we took the vote, 23 of the 25 said they went in through fear. You can't force a man to give you a check on a bank and collect it by law, because it is not constitutional. Neither can they force a man in the organization and fine him for selling outside. Threats like these only tend to drive men out. We as farmers know they haven't our interest at heart so much as to go to lawing us to help us out. We as citizens demand our rights. We were loyal as conscripts could be, but the association got our tobacco and we got what Patty gave the drum. Don't prosecute those that sell out till they prosecute the night riders. Men are losing their homes, their families are in dire need of food and clothes and can't get one dollar. We as men, owe our first duty to our families. What man can see his own flesh and blood hungry and naked and see that by selling his little crop of tobacco outside the association he can supply their wants, could keep from selling, fine or no fine. Some men haven't received anything out of their tobacco for a year. If enforcement of law had begun with lawlessness we would not have been subjected to destruction of property and lives and crime, poor women screaming with terror-stricken hearts, feeling their lives were in the hands of a drunken, bloodthirsty mob. I would suggest the association pick the beam out of its own eye and then they can see how to pick the mote out of the brother's eye. I have failed to see where the law is constitutional. For God's sake don't wipe the old farmer from the face of the earth. The law says equal rights to all men. Our chairman says "stick to the association." We as farmers haven't the sticka ability without something to stick to. As was said to Nicodemus, the association must be born again.

GOOD CITIZEN

Passes Away After Very Brief Illness.

Lafayette, Ky., Feb. 6.—Mr. E. B. Smith died at his home in this place yesterday at 6 p. m., of fistula. His health had not been good for some months but he was confined to his bed only about a week, and his death was very unexpected as he was not thought to be seriously ill until the day before he died. He was 45 years old and was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Bennettsburg. The funeral was preached this afternoon in the Methodist church here by his pastor, Rev. Woodruff, after which the remains were laid to rest in Powell cemetery by the Modern Woodmen of America, of which order he was an honored member.

He had been in the grocery business here for 5 or 6 years and the large concourse of sorrowing friends which followed the remains to their last resting place attest his popularity. He leaves a wife and two small children, and many relatives and friends to mourn his demise.
